From editor's desk:

Warm season's greeting....

The current year begins with new chapter in the history of Pravara Medical Review. As practiced by any standard journal, the "PEER REVIEW" system has been introduced from the current issue.

The current edition of journal has two commentaries and begins with the burning issue of "Prenatal Sex Determination". It has also two original articles and three case reports. The first original article on pulmonary function test among smoker and non-smokers shows the smoking pattern and its implication on pulmonary function among rural population. A case report on custom made ocular prosthesis demonstrates method for customization of these prosthesis to avoid any disfigurement among patients who has lost ocular structures. In last section we have teasing quiz along with abstract.
